EMMY PADILLA

Emmy graduated as a lawyer in 2018 and joined Mayora IP in 2020. She has a background in labor, administrative, corporate, and intellectual property law, including litigious matters, from her time in private practice prior to joining Mayora.

Heading up the firm's Honduras operation, Emmy handles both contentious and non-contentious trademark matters before the Honduras IP Office (DIGEPIH). Her practice also extends to patents and copyrights, as well as IP enforcement and transactions. She represents primarily international clients both locally and throughout the Latin American region.

Emmy is assisted by and herself supports the firm's IP teams in Guatemala and El Salvador, as part of the firm's integrated IP offering in these countries..
